Fronted adverbials

Adverbials tell you when, where or how something happened. When they are at the start of a sentence they are called fronted adverbials.
Highlight the fronted adverbials

A long time ago, there was a king named Numitor who ruled an ancient city in Italy called Alba Longa. Numitor had a younger brother named Amulius who one day overthrew Numitor and took over Alba Longa. However, Amulius did not want any conflict so he killed Numitor's male heirs and forced his daughter to become a Vestal Virgin. However, Rhea Silvia fell in love with Mars, the God of War, and they had twin sons. The punishment for breaking vows was usually death but Amulius feared the wrath of Mars. Instead, King Amulius imprisoned Rhea Silvia and ordered the twins to be put in the River Tigris by a servant.

When the servant reached the river bank with the twins, he could not throw them in. Instead, he placed their basket in the river.

Eventually, a compassionate she-wolf came across the basket in the river and pulled the babies to safety.

Soon, the twins were found by a caring shepherd. He took the twins back home.
