I would like you to write a diary entry as though you are somebody living and working in a workhouse. It is entirely up to you how old you are in your diary, whether you are able-bodied, whether you are male or female.

Your diary entry should include as much history as you can. This could be things such as what you would eat, what jobs you would be expected to do, how you are treated, where you sleep and what the conditions are like.

You may need to do some extra research of your own to make sure that your diary is accurate and full of details.
